

Left to right: Beth Mckenzie, Marine Corps Air Station (MCAS) Cherry Point Marine Corps Community Services (MCCS) marketing and recreation director, Robert Rice, MCAS Cherry Point air show director and director of operations, U.S. Marine Corps Col. Mikel Huber, commanding officer of MCAS Cherry Point, and Beverly Guerin, executive assistant for MCCS Cherry Point, pose for a photo after winning three awards at the International Council of Air Shows Convention in Las Vegas, Dec. 9, 2021. The awards demonstrates the air stations excellence in the ability to plan, host, and execute a safe, world-class air show in under four months. The typical planning cycle is a two-year endeavor. (Courtesy photo)

The 2021 Marine Corps Air Station (MCAS) Cherry Point Air Show was awarded the Pinnacle Platinum Award, the Dick Schram Memorial Community Relations Award, and the Blue Angel's Military Air Show of the Year Award at the International Council of Air Shows convention in Las Vegas, Dec. 7-9, 2021. All three awards highlight excellence in the air show industry, with the Pinnacle Platinum being the highest honors. (Courtesy photo)